Effects:

- Local stimulation of circulation by dilating the blood vessels in an attempt to warm the area
- Metabolism and tissue tone is locally increased
- Inflammation is decreased

Benefits and Uses:

Increased circulation can feel invigorating or refreshing for tired and overworked feet and ankles. This increased local circulation comes from a reaction to the cold water and from the pumping action of walking

Sympathetic nervous system stimulation due to the combination of short cold and exercise

Let's Go Outside! Bring your hand towel.

Aromatic Hot Towel G-22

1. Prepare towels: Soak and wring out 3-4 hand towels and place them in a hot towel cabby, slow cooker or microwave Allow to get hot (But not scolding)
2. After Massage is given in a given area, back, leg or feet, uncover the area.
3. Remove hot towel from hot towel cabby, shake out briefly to lower the intense heat and so as not to burn your client and then apply to desired area.
4. Towels will cool very quickly once applied to the body so use the time wisely and apply deep compressions, lift muscle from the bone for deeper level of circulation and relaxation.
5. Use sheet and blanket to cover moist towel and re-drape the area. Pull the moist towel from under the drape without exposing the client and locking in the warm moist heat in under the drape.
6. Apply more deep compressions and rocking over the drape.
